

Jailers Recognized By DOC For Support During NTC Riot

The Kentucky Jailers' Association summer conference was held June 20-24 at the Galt House in Louisville.

During the association's banquet, 12 Kentucky jails were recognized by the Kentucky Department of Corrections for their assistance during the Northpoint Training Center riot.

Jail staff in these counties transported inmates from Northpoint Training Center to other institutions, some of them making multiple trips from the facility.

In recognizing the jailers for their contribution, DOC Deputy Commissioner Rodney Ballard stated that the

Please See JAILERS, Page 23

Twelve Kentucky jailers were recognized by the Kentucky Department of Corrections during the annual Jailers' Conference held recently. The jailers were recognized for their significant contributions during the aftermath of the Northpoint riot.

Jailers

From Page 20

jails responded to the departments request for assistance without hesitation.

Photo plaques were presented to staff of the following jails by DOC Deputy Commissioner Al Parke, and Assistant Director Paula Holden:

Boone County, Ed Prindle; Campbell County, Greg Buckler; Casey County, Tommy Miller; Christian County, Brad Boyd; Fayette County, Ron Bishop; Grant County, Steve Kellam; Kenton County, Terry Karl; Henderson County, Ron Herrington; Marion County, Barry Brady; Oldham County, Mike Simpson; Pulaski County, Mike Harris; and Shelby County, Bobby Waits.

Shelby County Jailer Bobby Waits, President of the Kentucky Jailers' Association (center) was among those to be recognized by the Department. He is pictured above with Deputy Commissioner Al Parke and Assistant Director Paula Holden.